About three years ago a man named Foley, who did an insurance business here for a short time, became very intimate with Miss McMahon. About May 25, 1892, they both disappeared and were not seen until the afternoon of June 2, 1892, when Miss McMahon was found on the bank of Neversink River in a critical condition, having been assaulted by the negro, Bob Lewis.

Searching parties were organized and captured Lewis. Before he could be lodged in Jali a mob gathered and lynched him.

CONTANTINO IS DYING.

Carmella Belasi's Slayer May Escape the Death Chair.

Gluseppe Contantino, the young bootblack, who murdered his sweetheart and shot himself last week, and who was believed to be in no danger, is dying in Bellevue Hospital.
Yesterday afternoon he was subjected to an interesting and difficult operation by Dr. W. Ayres, the house sugeon, and his assistants. The self-delivered bullet struck Con-tantino in the throat just below the "Adam's apple," and took a range up-ward and to the left. Probing was too dangerous, and it was hoped that the ball had passed into his mouth and been As time passed, the patient developed symptoms of fracture of the base of the skull, and from certain indications of paralysis, it was thought that an aboess was forming in the brain over the motor area, lying, on the left side of the head, just showe the ear.

The delicate operation of trepanning was performed at that point yesterday. The surgeons were disappointed in their assumption, as there was no abscess. It was impossible to reach the bullet, which lies at the base of the brain surrounded with a large clot. The wound was closed up and Contantino returned to the prison ward. Dr. Ayres says he does not expect Contantino to live forty-eight hours.

Colored Boy the Victim of Two Young Flends in Texas.

(By Associated Press.)
TERRELL, Tex., Aug. 1.—On the W. C. McCord farm, near here, a most peculiar crime was committed by two of Peter Gibson's boys. While they were playing with Murrow Jackson's six-year-old boy, the Gibsons gouged one of the little boy's eyes out with an awl. To prevent him from going home and telling on them, they then gouged several holes in his body, threw him in a tank and held him under the water until he and need him under the water until he was drowned.

They then concealed his clothes in a brush pile. The body was found and the boys placed under arrest. They confessed to the killing and told where the clothes were hidden. All three of the boys are colored.

a retired lawyer, of 48 West Fifty-first street.

The girls whom, it is alleged, they insulted, were Emily and Sophia Fisher, sisters, agod respectively sixteen and seventeen years, and living at 238 West Twenty-ninth street.

Crofton was standing near the caroussel, near the West Walk, at 9.15 o'clock, when he was approached by the sisters, the youngest of whom was crying. They complained that as they were walking in the park two young men, who were lying on a bench, made some insulting remarks to them.

The officer saw that the girls were almost hysterical, and after caiming their fears he requested them to walk ahead and point out their insulters. The girls did so, and soon reached the young men, who on catching sight of the girls and the officer sprang to their feet. Before they could escape Crofton seized both and marched them to the Arsenal.

As the girls did not put in an appearance at court to-day subpoenas were issued for them. The prisoners were held for further examination.

Mrs. Kate Harrison, thirty-three years old, called at Police Headquarters today and asked that a general alarm be eent out for her husband, Arthur, who disappeared yesterday afternoon a few minutes after arriving in the city. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison have been employed on a dairy farm at Tuckahoe,

N. Y Her husband's health had failed and they determined to come to New York and obtain other employment.

They started from the Grand Central Depot west through Forty-second street. Between Fifth and Sixth avenues they met a Mrs. William Filkins, from whom they expected to engage rooms. Mr. Harrison then discovered that he had left a valise at the depot and sent his wife back for it. When she returned she found only Mrs. Filkins, who said that her husband had disappeared in the crowd unnoticed by her.

Harrison had no money, and the only valuable article he carried was a watch. Mrs. Harrison is now stopping at Bremen's hotel, Ninth street and Sixth avenue. N. Y Her husband's health had falled
